The University of Montevallo provides employment-related reasonable accommodations to qualified individuals with disabilities to enable them to perform the essential functions of their positions or to apply for available positions. The University of Montevallo prohibits discrimination against employees based on pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions in accordance with the Pregnant Workers Fairness Act. The University of Montevallo makes reasonable accommodations for pregnant employees who request them unless providing the accommodations imposes an undue hardship to the University.

Every individual with a disability is welcome to request reasonable accommodations. Subsequent to receiving a request, the appropriate University official will initiate an interactive process with the employee to identify and implement appropriate accommodations. The University may require medical documentation to support the request for accommodation, but only to the extent permitted by law. An employee needing a minor modification to their work environment may discuss the necessary accommodations with their supervisor, department head, dean or division head. Requests of a significant nature should be made to the Director of Human Resources, who is available to assist during any phase of the employment accommodation process.

All information related to accommodation requests will be kept confidential to the extent possible. Only individuals involved in the accommodation process will have access to this information. The University of Montevallo will make a good-faith effort to implement approved accommodations in a timely manner. However, the specific timeline may vary depending on the nature of the accommodation and any necessary procurement or adjustments. Accommodations will be periodically reviewed to ensure their effectiveness. If an employee's circumstances change, they should notify the appropriate official to discuss potential adjustments to accommodations.

The Workplace/ADA Reasonable Request for Accommodation form is available on the Human Resources page of the UM website.
